THE TEAM LOOK

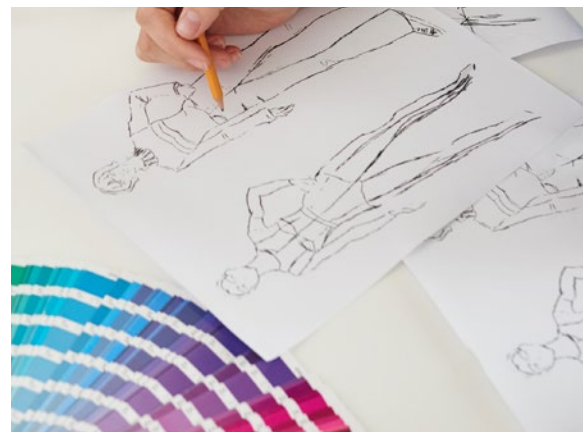

Our extensive range of stock service clothing is just the start of creating a cohesive uniform that your staff will love wearing.

Applying your brand can be the most important part, or simply the finishing touch in building a great uniform that your customers recognise as uniquely yours. Talk to our team about the different customisation options available.

Custom Embroidery

With an onsite embroidery team who can digitise your logo then apply it to almost all of our garments, embroidery is a simple and cost effective way to add something special to your uniform which will last the life of the garment.

Custom Design

In addition to customising our stock service range of garments, our team can also design, develop and manufacture your own unique garments if volume and budget permits.

Customised Tape & Woven Labels

Tapes and woven labels sewn into garments can give the feel of a premium, custom item without the expense. Just another option to subtly overlay your brand identity onto your uniform.

Screen & Digital Printing

For a more graphic, impactful statement screen and digital printing can add an entirely different dimension to your uniform.

SUSTAINABILITY

As with any great journey, we haven't been alone on our path towards sustainability.

Deane Apparel has been working since 2009 with customers, suppliers and third-party audit providers to use less virgin plastic, shut the door on the exploitation of workers, boost our environmental performance and much, much more.

Why? In part it's because we serve customers who are no longer content to pay lip service to sustainability. But also, because the Deane Apparel team understands that all of us have a role in protecting our planet for our tamariki and mokopuna. We know there's still plenty to do and we're up for it.

Care to join us on our journey?

"From the beginning, sustainability has been an initiative that came from Deane people. It's one of the ways we can be better as a company"

Corey Mulligan - General Manager

Our Sustainability work makes a difference in four areas;

Ethical Offshore Sourcing

Deane Apparel delivers over 2.5 million garments every year. Today, each one is made in ethical workplaces and an increasing majority of them from fabrics with a reduced environmental footprint.

Sweatshops, child labour, human trafficking and modern slavery; unethical workplace conditions go under many names. Deane Apparel was an early mover in the shift to minimum standards for workplace conditions; we first required Workplace Codes of Conduct from suppliers in 2009.

In 2018 we adopted a higher standard, ensuring all garment manufacturers are audited against Intertek's Working Conditions Assessment (WCA). The WCA programme audits workplace conditions including the freedom to work, zero tolerance for modern slavery and child labour, fair wages and reasonable working conditions.

We're also making progress when it comes to the environmental footprint of the fabrics in our clothing. All the textile mills we deal with directly and 80% of those supplying our manufacturers, comply with OEKO-TEX Product Safety Standards. This certifies that fabrics are "harmless to health, environmentally friendly and manufactured in a fair way".

Sustainable Apparel

By addressing sustainability at the start and end of the product lifecycle, we should start to see real long-term differences.

Creating garments sourced from sustainable fibres helps us move towards our goal of 70% natural or sustainable fibres by 2024.

Deane first offered sustainable fabrics in 2018. We've made ground since then; natural or recycled fibres now make up 50% of our fabrics and we offer 13 eco-fabrics for wearer trials and volume production.

With more of our product range converting to recycled polyester every year, we're actively reducing our virgin polyester consumption.

We're also looking at the end of the product life cycle. The last two years have seen significant progress in textile recycling which Deane is at the forefront of and includes not only diversion from landfill but conversion into new products.

Sustainable Business

When it comes to product packaging, we believe less is more. 10 years ago we started replacing individual garment bags with plastic box liners. Now we're on a mission to eliminate plastic packaging altogether or, where that's not possible, replace it with recyclable and compostable materials.

Since 2018 we've removed from landfill, every year;

- 1.7 million plastic garment bags
- 32,000 collar stays
- 32,000 butterflies
- 60,000 pegs

Since 2021 our courier bags have met the Australian and New Zealand standard for Home Compostability, AS 5810-2010.

Plastic is such a focus for our business that we have a team specifically focused on plastic reduction and elimination.

Our Communities

For more than 30 years Deane has donated garments and fabrics to charities and schools. These days we donate to Salvation Army, Dress for Success and Auckland City Mission.

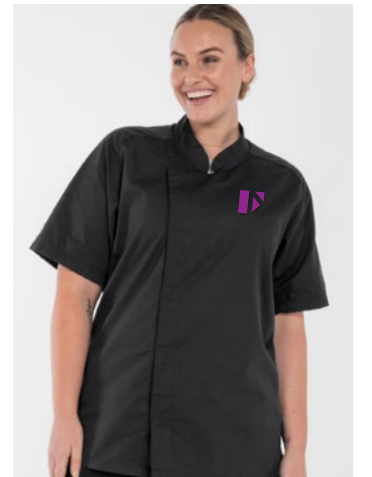

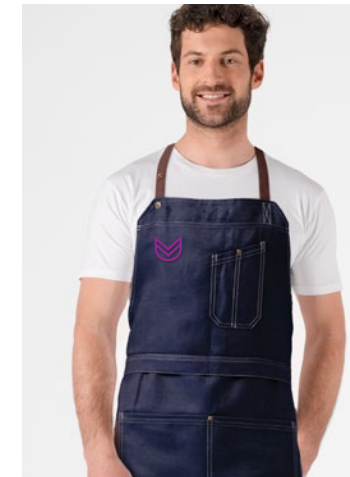

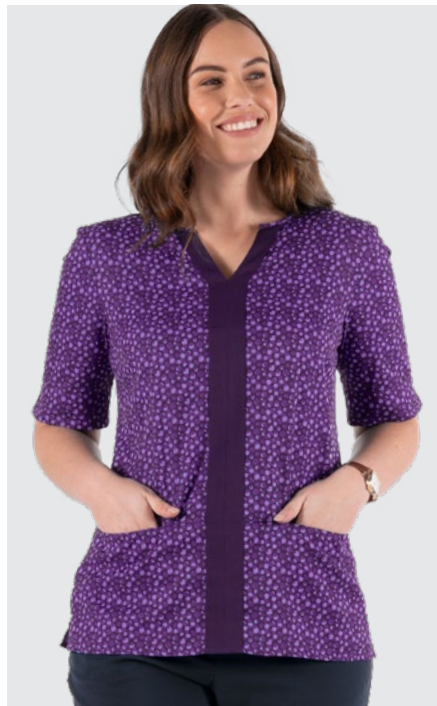

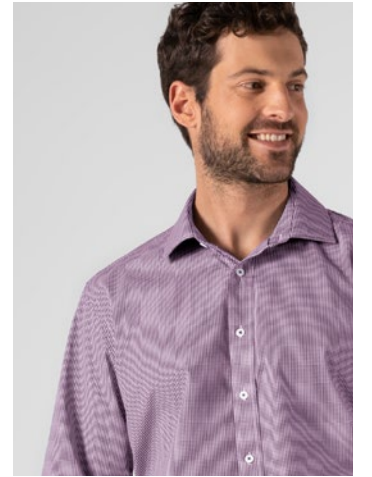

We provide design expertise and sourcing advice to social enterprise, Reemi who are focused on providing menstrual education and products that work for people in every culture.

We also support Ronald McDonalds House Charities.

In addition, our volunteer programme gives all Deane Apparel staff a day every year to share their time at a selected not-for-profit.
